

VETERANS SERVICE COMMISSION

Gina Crown

"Our Veterans deserve and are entitled to attentive, responsive, compassionate and effective services," says Gina Crown, Veterans Service Commissioner. "Veterans and service members are to be honored, respected, and accommodated for their sacrifices, in big ways as well as small." The key ways to achieve this, she feels, are through open channels of communication and a solid foundation of service agencies and organizations reaching out to the veterans. "The State of Nevada must be dedicated to these honorable men and women," she says, "to serve as their voice in securing and preserving hard-earned benefits and services at all levels."

Ms. Crown, originally from New York, is a 30-year Nevada resident. She holds Associates degrees in Criminology and Mid-management from Truckee Meadows Community College in Reno, and has taken the Nevada Peace Officers' Standards and Training (P.O.S.T.) course. She is a former Military Police Instructor for the U.S. Army, medically retired at 60%. Ms. Crown also serves the State on the Northern Nevada Veterans Memorial Cemetery Advisory Committee. She is a member of the Nevada Society of Professional Investigators, the California Association of Licensed Investigators, and the National Council of Investigation and Security Services, and is former Acting President of the Nevada Investigative and Protective Services Association. She has one adult son.
